TATA STEEL FC – A BRIEF HISTORY

With the building of the biggest Steel Works in Europe, the club became known as Margam Steel AFC in the 40's and played in the local Port Talbot League. When the works was commissioned in the 50's Margam Steel became S.C.O.W. AFC. After two seasons in the Port Talbot league Steel Company of Wales AFC made a brief excursion into the South Wales Amateur League in Season 1952-53 lasting just one season , finishing in fifth place , before dropping back into the local league.

After 12 years in the local league with some limited success, S.C.O.W. AFC once again entered the Amateur League, with the first 12 years seeing the club promoted 4 times, winning the 2nd Division Championship in 1978/79, they held their division 1 status for 4 years before relegation .Within this period S.C.O.W. AFC fell in line with the local steelworks and became known as British Steel AFC In 1988 and entered one of the most successful periods of the clubs history. British Steel AFC became Corus Steel FC in 1999 .In season 1985/86 they once again won the 2nd Division South Wales Amateur League Championship, to enter the 1st Division where they remained for 23 years Under Coaches Wayne Davies and Wayne Edwards British Steel won their first Division 1 title in 1988 and retained the title in 1989. During this period Steel won a number of trophies and reached the Corinthian Cup Final 5 times between 1989 and 1994.

Then in 1994 Steel won the league again, this time managed by Bobby Howe and continued to be successful for many years but could not win the league again before clinching the 2008/09 1st Division Championship which has seen them enter the Welsh League Third Division with Steve Lewis and Paul Evans at the helm. After consolidating their position in Welsh League Division 3 in 2009/10 Steel gained their second promotion in 3 seasons when finishing runner up to Monmouth Town last season. Promotion again in 2010/11 season saw reality exceed our wildest dreams to play in Division Two and last season saw us promoted for the third time in four seasons, finishing once again runners up to Monmouth Town. Season 2012-13 saw us keep the vast majority of the squad and with a few additions and we retained our position in Division One at the end of the season.
